BOODY AS A WITNESS.
He Will Testify for the Defense in Pigot's Trial.
Said He Was Too Busy to Appear in Court To-day.

Judge Moore Threatens to Make a Test of His Honor's Refusal.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Pigot, who appears for the prosecution and defense in the trial of James H. Pigot, the janitor of the Building Department, who is on trial before Judge Moore and a jury in the Brooklyn Court of Sessions for complicity in the alleged Columbian celebration frauds, have shaken hands and when they began proceedings this morning they were apparently on excellent terms.

Defendant Pigot was in his seat early this morning. Several of his political friends dropped into court before the proceedings began and spoke words of encouragement to the accused man.

When the case was resumed to-day not more than half the seats in the courtroom were occupied. Among the spectators were Aldermen Pickering and Thomas, who are not indicted, and Alderman McKee, who is.

Frederick Seifert, the builder, was recalled and stood in the stand. He said there was one stand on the Eighth Avenue side. It was twelve feet high in the rear, running down an incline to the front, six inches in front.

Witness Charles Southern.

Witness Frederick Seifert, contractor.

The whole structure was supported by upright posts sunk in the ground. The stand ran about 60 feet on Eighth Avenue. The other stand was on both sides of the monument on the plaza.

"How many stands were there in all, you separate them?"
"Three."
"Were many running feet in all?"
"About 1,200 feet."
"Charles H. Southern, who bought the stands from Pigot before they were used, was next recalled.
"Were these stands that you bought?"
"Yes, they were."
"There was one on Eighth Avenue and another on the plaza, extending both ways from the fountain; and another running in another direction; four in all."
He then gave a detailed description of the manner in which the stands were constructed, and corroborated Seifert in his estimate that all the stands put together were not more than 1,200 feet.

H. D. Southern, who is under indictment for presenting a false and fraudulent bill against the county, was in court, and he was asked to stand up. Witness identified him as the man who built the stands for the county. He did not buy the county stands from Pigot. Southern was then called to the stand.

ALDERMAN WERE LOOKS ON.
"Did you have anything to do with constructing these stands at the Prospect Park place?"
Objected to objection overruled.
"Then, said Mr. Seifert, 'will you instruct the witness that he need not answer any question that may incriminate himself; he being under indictment?'"
Witness was so instructed.

Southern testified that he had constructed two above the arch and two below. The stands were separated by about three feet.

STRUCK FOR AN APOLOGY.
Purse-makers Resent An Insultation of Theft.
There was a queer story this morning in the purse-making department of S. Schur & Son's fancy leather goods manufactory at 58 and 60 Leonard street.

Schur & Son employ about one hundred and fifty people, of whom sixteen are engaged in purse-making. The purse-makers were surprised at 9.30 o'clock this morning when Foreman Julius Felsome called them together and said that one of their number had stolen two pieces of leather.

The purses were sent down to Mr. Schur's office and asked him to name the alleged thief.

According to their story, Mr. Schur told them to go back to work and unless the two pieces of leather were returned by to-morrow morning the thief would be arrested.

The purse-makers returned to their department, but after a while they decided that unless Mr. Schur apologized they would not resume work.

They communicated this decision to Mr. Schur, and they say he told them to turn in the time checks and go home.

Of the sixteen purse-makers fourteen quit, only two girls remaining in the department. To an "Evening World" reporter, Mr. Schur said the story told by the men was substantially correct. He said that it had been a mistake to expect them to turn in the time checks and go home.

NOT THIS DANIEL KELLY.
Some Other Daniel Kelly Was the Co-Respondent Named.
Daniel Kelly, a member of the Five A's, residing at 142 West Sixty-second street, writes to "The Evening World" to say that he is not the variety actor named as co-respondent in the suit for divorce brought by Robert Schuyler, an actor, against his wife, Marie Kelly.

The story of the schuyler suit was published in "The Evening World" Tuesday, and a Daniel Kelly was the co-respondent named. When Mrs. Kelly saw the story it stirred her peace of mind and she wrote to the paper.

Mr. Kelly says he will change his name to avoid a future such derogatory complications.

BROOKLYN'S WILD BOY MISSING.
William Harold Johnson Has Again Run Away.
Police Notified that He Has Been Absent Since April 29.

William Harold Johnson, known as "Brooklyn's Wild Boy," has again disappeared from his mother's home, and all trace of him is lost. The news of his latest departure was not communicated to the Brooklyn police until to-day, although he went away on April 29.

His mother then resided at 1301 Atlantic avenue. Since the boy returned home from his last excursion a close watch has been kept upon his movements, and when Mrs. Johnson left her home she was in the habit of locking him in the room.

On April 29, and during her temporary absence the boy slipped out of the house and disappeared.

He showed no signs of being permanently affected until several months later, when he suddenly disappeared.

On two more occasions he disappeared from home, but returned home in several weeks.

The fourth time he disappeared was about three years ago. He was gone a month. Early one morning, a police man saw a rustling in the shrubbery in front of the house.

On Feb. 16, 1902, the boy again disappeared, and all trace of him was lost.

On Feb. 16, 1902, the boy again disappeared, and all trace of him was lost.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO PARADE.
Ceremonies in Commemoration of Ascension Day to Be Observed.
The Knights Templar Commanderies of New York and Brooklyn will celebrate Ascension Day by a parade to-day from the Masonic Temple, at Sixth Avenue and Twenty-third street, to St. Patrick's church, at Broadway and Vesey street, where divine service will be celebrated.

The parade will start at 10 o'clock, and the Knights Templar will march down Broadway to Battery, taking the Sixth Avenue route, back to the Temple.

290 CHINAMEN SENT BACK.
And Their Importer Arrested for Swearing Falsely.
TACOMA, Wash., May 11.—The steamship Victoria left for Hong Kong yesterday morning, carrying 290 Chinese sailors and men, who were ordered deported by Collector Wasson.

Thomas Sign, Western agent of the Wah Young Theatre Company, of Chicago, which imported the actors, has been arrested for swearing falsely that the men were sailors.

Thirty-two Chinese actors were allowed to land at Tacoma, and the rest were sent back to the ship.

Witness Charles Southern.

DESPERATE TOM PALLISTER.
The Reward for His Capture Great and the Danger Great.
Is that the Reason the Hawkshaw Are Not Anxious?

The probability that Thomas Pallister, who escaped from the death house in Sing Sing Prison with Frank W. Rohie on the night of April 20, is a double murderer has not apparently spurred the police to any greater effort toward his apprehension.

The theory that Pallister murdered Rohie on the night of the escape is generally accepted by both the prison authorities and the police in this city. This being the case it is evident that Pallister will not allow human life to stand between him and liberty, and should he come into contact with a Hawkshaw, he has reason to believe is interested in his capture it is only a question of who can shoot quickest.

This may or may not be the cause of the present seeming apathy of the people at Police Headquarters, but it is certain that there exists a lack of interest among the Hawkshaws in the dog white building concerning Pallister's recapture.

The murderer, it is said, is known to but few members of the police force. He is a small, dark man, with a high forehead, and a pair of eyes that are said to be as cold as steel.

It is generally conceded that the reward for the capturing of Pallister is much too small in proportion to the risk which must be run by those who might attempt his capture.

Since the discovery of Rohie's body the question has arisen whether or not Pallister was secure from the process of the law so far as carrying out the death sentence was concerned.

The impression prevailed that the time allowed for the execution of a condemned murderer after a denial of his appeal has expired, and that Pallister was, no longer, a prisoner.

Should Pallister be recaptured at any time he could be taken at once before the judge who pronounced his first sentence and he would not be a day in the hands of the law.

He has been recaptured and is now being held in the city prison.

GILROY MAY HOLD OVER.
Installation of Tammany Officers Takes Place To-night.
The annual meeting of the Tammany Society and installation of new officers will take place at the Fourteenth street Wigwag to-morrow evening.

The officers to be installed are Hugh J. Grant, Richard Croker, W. Bourke Cockran, John J. Gorman, Charles M. Chase, Charles L. Simmons, Charles F. Wells, Bernard P. Martin, John V. Arnold, Thomas L. Feistner, William H. Clark, Henry D. Purroy and John McGuire.

The Tammany Society will meet to-night at the Wigwag, and the officers will be installed.

Gone with the 'Schinetta' $5,000.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 11.—John L. Lamb, of Scranton, Pa., until Tuesday night Grand Treasurer of the International Organization of Nachists, has disappeared.

It is alleged that he has taken $5,000 of the funds belonging to the organization with him.

THE BIGAMIST WILL BE SENTENCED.
This Afternoon.
Plea for a Light Sentence Made This Morning.

Dr. David Rogers Jones Atwell, the Hoboken physician who was indicted for bigamy in April of last year, and who whispered his plea of guilty to Justice Ingraham last Monday, was called for sentence this morning.

The court-room was filled early in the morning with ward politicians and curiously looking onlookers, anxious to see to what extent the doctor's alleged political pull would avail him before the bar of justice.

As published in yesterday's "Evening World," Dr. Atwell is supposed to have pleaded guilty in the belief that his sentence would be slight on account of his political influence.

When the case was called Lawyer Howe addressed the Court, saying that he wanted it understood that there was nothing unusual in the way his client pleaded.

Dr. Atwell's senior counsel, Senator Coggeshall, said Mr. Howe, "is unfortunately prevented from being here by illness. He is counsel on account of love and esteem for Dr. Atwell, and is not paid a cent for his services."

Mr. Howe then read an affidavit from Senator Coggeshall, saying that Atwell's illness was such that he was unable to appear in person.

Mr. Howe then read Dr. Atwell's affidavit, in which he pleaded guilty to bigamy.

Atwell's affidavit stated that, after having treated Mrs. Hamilton, he had married her in New Jersey, and that he had lived with her in New York.

SMALL-POX ON STEAMER LAHN.
Another North German Lloyd Vessel with Contagion on Board.
The North German Lloyd steamship Lahn, one of the finest vessels of the line, is detained at quarantine with three cases of small-pox on board.

The steamer Gera arrived from Bremen with a case of small-pox on board, and the Lahn is believed to have contracted the disease from the Gera.

The Lahn left Bremen on May 2 and Southampton on May 3, and is expected to arrive at New York on May 11.

MR. VOSS GETS WORK.
And His Family Saved from Starvation by "The Evening World."
Victor Voss, his wife and four children, who live on the top floor of 126 Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn, are having a month's vacation from their daily work.

When an "Evening World" reporter called yesterday to pay over the $10 that two readers had contributed to relieve the family, Mr. Voss was singing a cheerful lullaby to his youngest child.

BAUER'S FAMILY TOO LARGE.
It Made Him Despondent, So He Blew His Brains Out.
Union Square Bank Porter Found Dead in a Closet.

William Bauer, a day porter in the Union square bank, committed suicide about 7 o'clock this morning in the bank building by blowing the top of his head with a bullet from a .44 calibre revolver.

Bauer was thirty-five years old and lived with his wife and five small children at 431 East Sixteenth street. He looked himself in a small closet in the bank not more than ten feet from the entrance door to the bank and there fired the fatal shot. The weapon belonged to the bank.

The immediate cause for self destruction was undoubtedly owing to the fact that Bauer was possessed of a larger family than he could afford to support.

Shortly before 7 o'clock this morning Charles, the right watchman of the bank, was roused by Bauer. The latter seemed to be in ordinary spirits.

Two hours later Bank Messenger George Douglas, of Brooklyn, entered the bank and discovered a stream of blood on the floor emanating from the closet.

Douglas summoned Policeman Moran of the East Twenty-second street station, and he burst open the closet door and found Bauer doubled up on the floor, his brains scattered over the side walls.

"The Evening World" reporter, Mrs. Bauer, wife of the dead man, said Bauer had not been right in his mind since the last day of his employment at the Union Square Bank.

Little Maria declared to go to Stegway, which was the name of the girl's mother. Mrs. Bauer said Maria could make more money, and as a situation which the little girl filled in Judge Daly's family at 431 East Sixteenth street.

When Bauer was found dead this morning he was very despondent.

"You'll never see me again," he said to Mrs. Bauer, "and you'll better live as fast as you can."

"Wait and take your lunch," replied the wife, but he slammed the door, shouting, "I never need your lunch."

The wife felt worried at her husband's strange action and sent her daughter, Clara, and children to the bank. There the little girl found her father weeping in his own closet.

Charles Fols, of the Union Square Bank, said that Bauer had been in the bank's employ for some time, and was a quiet, industrious man.

The body was removed to a Second Avenue undertaker's shop.

WAITERS ARE STILL STRIKING.
Gerlach Employees Say the Proprietor Broke His Promise.
Claremont Hotel Threatened—Mass Meetings Called.

Eleven of the twenty-five waiters at the Gerlach Hotel, Twenty-seventh street and Sixth Avenue, have gone out on strike. During the week of the naval parade they made a demand for an increase of wages to $35, and to avert trouble, the proprietor promised it, but when they received their pay it was only their old salary of $23.

Secretary Des Jardins, of the Waiters' Alliance, said this morning that unless the second head waiter of the Claremont Hotel, at Riverside Park, who was discharged yesterday for agitating among the waiters, was reinstated, the waiters there would go out to-day.

The coffee-house waiters of the east side will hold a meeting this afternoon at Liberty Hall, 37 East Houston street, to organize. They will probably resolve to make a concerted demand for an increase of wages, which are now $3 to $7 per week.

The downtown waiters will also organize this afternoon at Alliance Headquarters, 50 East Tenth street.

A mass-meeting of waiters will be held at the Claremont Hotel, at Riverside Park, to-day afternoon to discuss a plan of action to be taken against the proprietors.

The manager of the New Netherlands Hotel, which will be opened on May 25, has said that he has no intention of employing none but union waiters.

ANOTHER NATIONAL BANK FAILS.
The Capital of Indianapolis, Closes Its Doors.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 11.—The Capital National Bank, of this city, has suspended.

The State Bank Examiner is in charge and a statement will be had soon.

JEWELRY WORTH $30,800.
Proceeds of the Alleged Mysterious Robbery Appraised at That Figure.
Jeweller Kalbo, who succeeded Jeweller Morch as appraiser of the jewelry found in possession of Eugene Leroux, his wife and Theodore Gallade, in Williamsburg last week, has finished his task and reports as follows:

One hundred and two gold watches, 35 diamond pins, 54 diamond bracelets, 174 diamond pins, 54 pairs diamond bracelets, 18 pairs diamond rings, 32 ladies' gold brooches, 1 gold locket, 1 diamond ring, 5 pairs of assorted diamond pins and a pair of diamond earrings, valued at $30,800.

Capt. Short told an "Evening World" reporter this morning that the new developments were expected at any moment, and he promises to surprise the prisoners when they face justice in the Court to-morrow.

Hearing in the habeas corpus writ, issued on behalf of the Lerouxes and returned to the justice court, was again adjourned yesterday until Saturday.

MIXED THE FAKE AND REAL GEMS.
A Peddler Probably Unconsciously Benefited by the Exchange.
A sixteen-year-old peddler of paste diamonds and fake jewelry probably has a $500 pair of diamond earrings in his stock to-day, unless he has sold the earrings to some one believing they were merely paste gems.

It all came about through a visit yesterday of Samuel Bricker, of 1344 Lexington avenue, to the Grand Central Station, to Jacob Kupper's beer emporium, at Ninety-first street and Lexington.

SHE LOVED HARRIS.
The Wife-Poisoner's Romance of the Tomb.
Was His Sweetheart the White-Faced Girl at the Funeral?

A mysterious young woman, shaking with grief, was apparently the most affected of all those who attended the funeral of wife-murderer Carlisle Wentworth Harris, at Sing Sing, Tuesday.

She was heavily veiled, so heavily that all that could be told of her in description was that she was tall, gracefully formed and very white-faced. Her name was denied to all inquirers.

The question is asked to-day if she was not a maiden widowed by the taking off of Harris, for it transpires that while Harris was the central figure in an awful tragedy before the public he was playing a part in a romance in the gruesome corridors of the Tomb Prison, with an unusually beautiful young woman, who lavished her kisses, her embraces and her tears upon him for more than a year.

This young woman was known to the authorities at the Tomb as Carrie Brun, and of the lawyers and law clerks in the office of howe & Hummel as "Carrie Jones."

At the Tomb she gave her address as "seventy-fourth street and Western Boulevard, no number."

"There I saw her go to the door of Carl Harris' cell, No. 52, on the second floor, and stop by him. She was there more than an hour."

"I noticed that they both were very nervous, and that they were both crying. She was weeping and he was crying. They were both crying."

"That was a long time ago. It was before the case was heard. It was before the case was heard. It was before the case was heard."

CABLE TO BE KEPT RUNNING.
But All the Broadway Cars May Be Stopped Even on June 15.
At the office of the Broadway Cable Car Company it was said this morning that the cable car line will be kept running on street to the Battery, which was started yesterday, will be kept running on and off for general testing and stretching until the cable cars are ready to be sent to the Battery.

June 15 has been fixed as the day for beginning to run all the cable-cars, but this will be the only day in which the cars will be working perfectly on all sections of the road.

BEARS RAID AGAIN.
Advance in Bank of England Causes Depressure.
The bears jumped on the stock market again this morning and by well directed attacks succeeded in demoralizing more than ever the traders on the Bull side.

The advance in the Bank of England discount rate to 4½ per cent, and the fact that London prices for Americans came lower than our closing of yesterday assisted the depression.

NEW UTRCHT GAS CONTRACTS.
Citizens' League to Bring a Suit to Have It Annulled.
The Citizens' League of New Utrecht, L. I., are about to bring a suit to nullify the ten years' gas contract made with the Kings County Illuminating Company.
